Institutional Weakness:

- A limitation in the designing of the syllabus as the institution is affiliated to the University.
- Less number of collaborations and linkages at the International level.
- Majority of students come from vernacular medium or from regional language backgrounds which leads to low results in the final year.
- Being an affiliated college no scope for curriculum revision, assessment, evaluation, examination reforms, and structure of courses.
- The HEI is an unaided self-finance institute which leads to limited financial freedom. The college doesn't receive any grants from the government it's a self-funded institution. The fees of the students are the major source of income for HEI to run with day-to-day activities.
- With the prestigious recognition from NAAC (National Assessment and Accreditation Council), our institution is poised for expansion.
